

SCRIPTWRITING FOR UNESCO YOUTH HACKHATON 2026

Introduction

Player is about to play relay race in a magical maze designed as an art commonplace. In order to do that, they must decode false pictures, fill in the blanks, and others. They must also beat the timer!

ARTWORK CUE: Warm-toned lighting, starry ambience, crayon-styled

MILLER

Each room in this building is interlocked.
To reach the end of the maze, we must obtain keys.

MILLER

The first one is hidden in the gallery.

MILLER

We must first clear up the space and find it.

MILLER

Eliminate decoys and help me find real art works

AIDAN

Ah, if this isn't the key to success....

AIDAN

I figure these letters have clues to our next key

AIDAN

Help me delete letters that do not sound human

Text 1:

Axolotls derive from the same species as salamanders. Whilst being amphibians, their external gills remain aquatic. They reach maturity without significant metamorphosis.

[Human] [Somewhat Human] [Barely Human] [Not Human]

Text 2:

British foods revolve around proteins. A full-on English breakfast have fried egg, bacons, beans and Yorkshire pudding. For lunch, scotched eggs are a common favorite, in a donut shape with breaded sausage.

[Human] [Somewhat Human] [Barely Human] [Not Human]

Text 3:

Valentine's Day is celebrated every February 14th and is named after Saint Valentine, a Roman priest associated with love and romance. People around the world celebrate their love by exchanging billions of chocolates, flowers, and cards with their loved ones.

[Human] [Somewhat Human] [Barely Human] [Not Human]

Text 4:

In the 1920s, uniforms were often formal and practical, reflecting the fashion and social standards of the time. Many people wore uniforms for work, school, sports, and military service, and these outfits were usually designed to look neat and professional. Uniforms from this era often included structured jackets, skirts or trousers, hats, and polished shoes.

[Human] [Somewhat Human] [Barely Human] [Not Human]

Text 5:

Chopsticks are made around 1200 BCE. Historically, firework became on demand during the Shang dynasty where people had to work quickly. The utensil is made to shorten time when chopping and stirring.

[Human] [Somewhat Human] [Barely Human] [Not Human]

KEY OBTAINED

AIDAN

I see you've been reading!

AIDAN

You might be the key player.

The end of the maze is near!
